COUNTERTERRORISM:
How will the changing international architecture affect humanitarian action in the next 5 years?

OVERVIEW

The humanitarian sector has a critical function. Emergency aid is needed to save lives and prevent suffering and loss in contexts of acute need. In the longer term, humanitarian aid is crucial to helping communities recover from disasters and rebuild their lives. It also supports the education and training of small local organizations that help people rebuild their communities, and it provides the safety net for the most vulnerable people. In the context of rapid changes, the humanitarian sector needs to be able to adapt.

COUNTERTERRORISM AND HUMANITARIAN ACTION

Countering terrorism has made huger its own, especially human security and the international community's collective responsibility. It is part of the international community's collective responsibility to protect the most vulnerable people from terrorism. The international community has a responsibility to ensure that its actions and policies are consistent with human rights, humanitarian law, and international law. It is important to ensure that humanitarian aid is delivered in a way that is consistent with human rights and humanitarian law.

4 KEY ACTORS

1. Who does the threat? Individual/Group

2. Who does the effect? Individual/Group

3. Local organizations

4. International organizations

OUTLOOK - 5 KEY DRIVERS OF CHANGE

1. Terrorism and war

2. Economic crisis

3. Climate change

4. Migration and forced displacement

5. Technology and cyber security

IMPACT ON HUMANITARIAN ACTION

There is a risk of emergency and security-related restrictions on humanitarian aid. The humanitarian sector needs to be prepared to respond to emergency situations and to ensure that aid is delivered in a way that is consistent with human rights and humanitarian law. It is important to ensure that humanitarian aid is delivered in a way that is consistent with human rights and humanitarian law.

LOOKING AHEAD

The humanitarian sector needs to be prepared to respond to emergency situations and to ensure that aid is delivered in a way that is consistent with human rights and humanitarian law. It is important to ensure that humanitarian aid is delivered in a way that is consistent with human rights and humanitarian law.